WOLF! WOLF!

Every time anything is said about moral conditions in this county certain papers have the nasty and untruthful habit of proclaiming to the world that there is going to be a clean-up in the western end of Contra Costa, thereby throwing out the impression with deliberate malice that everything out of gear in the matter of non-observance of law, has its habitat down this way.

FIXED HABIT

If only one such offense was charged, it could be overlooked on the ground that it was not premeditated, but due to an unintentional error. But when the offense is repeated on every possible occasion it fills one with the almost irresistible desire to stand up on our hind legs and yell "WOLF" so loud that every inhabitant of the county will hear it.

OUR ENVIABLE RECORD

We do not contend that we are chemically pure and far be it from us to adopt the "holier than thou" attitude, but we will bet dollars to doughnuts as long as the supply of "sinkers" holds out that there is no town in Contra Costa or any section of the East Bay area that is so free from any and all kinds of crime as Richmond. This condition of affairs is due to two causes; first the commendable work and policies of Chief of Police L. E. Jones and his men, and second because the people of Richmond generally are inherently law-abiding. It therefore does not go very strong to have as held up as an awful example of everything that should not be, and what is more we do not propose to rest under the accusation without resenting it.

COMPARISONS

Much criticism has, by innuendo, been directed at El Cerrito. While it may be conceded that a liberal view is taken by that municipality in respect to certain banned amusements, it is a well known fact that that town is simply pure in comparison with some.

Labor Breaks With F. D. R. On Auto Code

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—President Roosevelt extended the automobile code over the opposition of five members of the seven man NRA governing board. It was disclosed tonight.

At the same time, organized labor was portrayed in a definite split with the White House and determined to shift its battle for workers' safeguards under codes to Capitol Hill.

Members of the board who opposed acceptance of industry's terms in the auto code extension were Sidney Hillman, Leon Henderson, Leon Marshall, Blackwell Smith and Walter H. Hamilton. Chairman S. Clay Williams of the board and Arthur D. Whiteside, approved plan of settlement.

PLOT NEXT STEP

Meantime, the powerful executive council of the American Federation of Labor in session here summoned a committee of three members of the National Council of Automobile Workers today to plot the next step.

Before going into the conference, Francis J. Dillon, A. F. of L. organizer, said:

Second Hold-Up of Oakland Streetcar

OAKLAND, Feb. 1.—UP.—Robbery of a streetcar man, W. J. Hanson at Thirty-fourth and Holman street had all the earmarks of a similar robbery last night, but at a different point. The bandit entered the car, which had no passengers and forced Hanson at the point of a gun to give him the contents of his money changer. He then dropped off the car and disappeared.

The holdup man was described as being white, about 26 years, light hair, light complexion, five feet, 10 inches in height, and dressed in gray pants and a brown zipper sweater. He used a "dark revolver." He wore no hat.

THE WEATHER

SAN FRANCISCO BAY REGION—Fair Saturday with moderate temperature and gentle to moderate north and northeast wind. Fair Sunday.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA—Fair Saturday, but with fog in the valleys; continued mild, gentle changeable wind off the coast. Fair Sunday.

MEXICO SWEEPED BY REVOLUTION

REBEL TELLS WAR PLAN TO U. S. SCRIBE

By JACQUES D'ARMAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1935.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—UP.—A revolution started in Mexico last December will be carried to a conclusion within six months, Gen. Antonio Villarreal, rebel leader, told this correspondent tonight in an exclusive interview in his secret headquarters.

"Please tell the world that the revolution started December 20, said Villarreal, one of Mexico's oldest revolutionists. "All these outbreaks (since last December) are part of a general plan which we are leading and which we will carry through to a conclusion in not less than six months."

MOUNTAIN HIDE-OUT
The rebel chief, whose whereabouts has been a mystery for months and who has escaped the most diligent search of government agents sent an auto and aides to conduct this correspondent, whom he knew during the abortive Escobar rebellion, of 1929, to the lonely hacienda in the mountains where he maintains headquarters.

Villarreal greeted the writer on his arrival and said: "You are the only foreign correspondent I am able to trust, therefore I asked my assistants to request an interview with you."

He gave his message for the world and continued:

MONEY NOT LACKING
"We are constitutionalists. We believe in rights and the freedom of religious expression under the constitution but the present government is violating the constitution daily."

"We have plenty of money and please tell the world that no money is coming from the United States."

Sciot Pyramid Hears Talk On Townsend Plan

"Old Times Night" was enjoyed by the Richmond Pyramid of Sciot last night at a meeting held in the Richmond clubhouse. A 6:30 dinner was served and at the conclusion of the repast, Dr. James Hendy addressed the Pyramid on the Townsend Old Age Pension bill.

W. J. Shiley was chairman of the evening and introduced the speaker.

A short business meeting was held with Toparch Allen J. Cundy presiding. At that time plans were laid for a "set acquainted night" to be held in the near future and for a ceremonial to be held next month.

Following the meeting, the members of the Pyramid went to Miramonte chapter's card party.

Laverne Culbertson will be in charge of the "Get Acquainted Night" on February 15. The affair will be open to Sciot and Masons and will be featured by an indoor horseshoe match between the Berkeley and Richmond Pyramids. In addition there will be a musical program.

The ceremonial planned for March 16, promises to be the largest ever held here. Eastbay and Vallejo Sciot will participate. There will be a class initiation and a parade. Many bands and drum corps will participate. L. M. Johnson, L. E. Jones and W. J. Shiley head the committee in charge.

Membership roll call night will be held March 1. Preston Moses will be in charge.

FESTIVAL DATE FIXED

BRENTWOOD, Feb. 1.—Dates for Diablo Valley's ninth annual apricot festival have been tentatively fixed for June 21, 22 and 23 by directors of the East Contra Costa Chamber of Commerce.

Many Species Of Birds Are Exhibited At Local Aviary

The City of Richmond will be more or less of a paradise for bird lovers as the result of activities of the Richmond Lions Club, the city park department, the SERRA, the CWA, the PWA and the civic organizations.

At the present time there are many species of water fowl confined at the aviary located in Kitchell Park. And day by day, more birds, ranging from rare specimens of wild birds to just plain, every day run of the mill ducks of the Joe Penner species are arriving.

65 FOWLS PRESENT
At the present time there are about 65 fowl at the aviary, including 16 water fowl and 22 upland birds. In addition, many more have been ordered through the cooperation of local civic and fraternal organizations. Other birds have been promised.

Arthur Faris, city clerk and more or less custodian of the birds, yesterday told of the foundation of the aviary plan.

TELLS OF PLAN
"The idea was conceived and presented at a meeting of the board of directors of the Richmond Lions club, held in February, 1934. Dr. L. H. Fraser, then president of the club, appeared before the Richmond City Council on March 5, 1934, and presented the proposition, pledging the club to pay costs of materials, then estimated to be $150, if the council would provide the labor through the CWA. The mayor, speaking for the council, accepted the proposition and we started the work of raising the necessary funds. Actual work on the aviary was first begun about May 1 and then the CWA quit business in this field and the city through its park and labor departments, continued the work until the SERRA came to the front with a few men to assist."

"The aviary is 100 feet long, 50 feet wide and 20 feet high and has a pool in one end with water running into and out of it continually so that fresh water is available."

Police Hunting Oakland Doctor In Murder Plot

Richmond police last night were asked to aid in a search for Dr. Eugene S. May, 50, of 6556 Dawes avenue, Oakland and his 13-year-old son Jack May, of Alameda, after Dr. May had threatened to kill his son and then commit suicide.

Mrs. C. M. May of 2838 Central avenue, Alameda, estranged wife of the physician, reported that Dr. May came to her home and took her son for a ride early yesterday. When they did not return, she called police. Shortly after, Dr. May allegedly called Mrs. May on the telephone and told her that he was going to kill the boy and then kill himself unless she consented to return to him.

Some time later, Mrs. May reported that her son called her by telephone, refused to say where he was, but declared that he was all right.

Police broadcast warnings to all departments to be on the lookout for Dr. May and his son in a Packard sedan. Police warned that the doctor carries a quantity of narcotics and a hypodermic equipment.

STATE HITS NEW STORY BY EXPERT

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 1.—CP—Of all the bewildering narratives that have been told under oath in this courtroom, the strangest one came out today when counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann produced testimony designed to prove that Isidor Fisch and Violet Sharpe kidnapped the Lindbergh baby and carried it across the Hudson river into New York.

Isidor Fisch died almost a year ago in Germany from tuberculosis.

Violet Sharpe, housemaid in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, grandmother of the murdered baby, committed suicide just when State police were about to question her concerning the kidnapping.

EXPERT CALLED
Peter J. Sommers is the man who told all this. He used to be a fingerprint expert in New York City, and must have made 500 court appearances in his day. But never has a witness in this trial been so shaken and rattled by cross examination. Not even Millard White, who came down out of the Sourland mountains unable to read and unable to grasp the meaning of the legal terms flung at him by lawyers.

Sommers was brought into court as a defense witness, but for some bewildering reason Edward J. Kelly, chief of the Hauptmann legal staff, never did draw from him a connected narrative of what he saw and heard at midnight on the night the Lindbergh baby was stolen. It was only under cross examination by Attorney General

Many Steamers Will Dock At Local Harbor

Richmond's harbor presented a busy scene yesterday, with numerous ships loading. At the same time, Charles Engle, manager of the Parr-Richmond Terminal Company announced that several other steamers will call here during the next week.

Yesterday the Bookings of the McCormick Line was loading oil products for Puget Sound; the steam schooner San Pedro was loading oil products also for the Puget Sound; a C. & H. liner was loading merchandise and petroleum products for Columbia river ports.

Today the steamer San Gabriel, of the Quaker Line, will dock to load a general cargo for the east coast. The steamer Cabopeak, of the Nelson Line will take on a cargo for Puget Sound ports; the steamer Solano of the Beagle Steamship Company will load a general cargo for Portland while the Marion Ows Chandler, of the Matson Company will load a general cargo for Long Beach.

Booked for arrival Monday is the Gulf Pacific steamer Point Salinas, to load a general cargo for Gulf ports.

On February 5 the Furness liner Pacific Enterprise will load a general cargo for the United Kingdom.

Death and Desolation

WHILE MORE than 18,000 persons were homeless in the Mississippi flood area, 3,000 in desperate peril and 20 dead, relief workers were handicapped in rescue attempts by near zero weather. Above is an air view of the town of Falcon, Mississippi, submerged in the frigid waters of the Coldwater River.

American Toll Bridge Plans Debt Refunding

American Toll Bridge Company, operating the Carquinez and Antioch bridges, has plans under way to refund its bond obligations at a considerably reduced rate of interest, which it is calculated, would reduce the annual interest charges $300,000, or about 8 cents a share on the outstanding 3,780,000 shares of stock. About $2,200,000 of 7 per cent bonds due in 1945, bearing a 7 percent interest rate and $1,050,000 with an 8 percent a year interest charge would be called in and a new loan arranged on a basis of 5 percent annually, after which dividend distribution would begin.

BALANCE FOR YEAR

In a statement of operations for the past year the company reported a balance after all charges including taxes, insurance, interest and bond redemption, of $25,199.

Estimating that there will be an increase of traffic the company year over the two bridges of 3 percent, there would remain a profit for 1935 on the present scale of interest costs of $163,400 while under the proposed refunding plans there would be available for dividends on the stock about $346,400. However, as the 7 percent bonds are callable at 1932 and the 8 percent at 1935, the proposed refunding plans would call for $122,000 outlay over the par value of the debt, reducing by that amount the estimate of profits of $346,400.

SUIT MAY BLOCK PLAN

There is one obstacle in the way of the success of the proposed refunding, a suit pending in the District Court of Solano county brought by certain stockholders to compel the company to pay $1 a share and 6 percent interest on stock originally sold to the public at $2 a share, before any dividends may be declared.

In an explanatory statement to some stockholders the directors of the company say nothing can be done as long as the present suit is pending or remains unsettled. "We know that if the suit is decided against the company it will be appealed to a higher court and this will entail years of delay and large expenses. We believe that if you will give this your careful consideration you will realize that the only thing for the stockholders to do is to promptly end this litigation that the company may proceed with its refunding; and with refunding a fact dividends will be forthcoming at an early date."

NO DIVIDENDS PAID
The company has been operating the two bridges for eight years and thus far no dividends have been paid. Stock for construction was sold but being unable to realize sufficient money from this source the company authorized a bond issue totaling $5,500,000 of which $1,500,000 were 7 percent obligations and $2,000,000 8 percent. The schedule of retirement through sinking fund rose from $258,575 in 1925 to $792,000 in 1931. This will be somewhat reduced in the next five or six years due to the gradually declining interest charges but the annual requirement will still be close to $750,000.

OPERATING COSTS HEAVY
In addition to this sinking fund charge the company has an expense of $10,000 a year for insurance and approximately $90,000 for taxes, as well as operating charges of about $80,000 a year, bringing the total annual charges, including retirement obligations, to $960,000. In the first five years operating income was sufficient to meet these charges and leave a substantial balance, ranging from $330,000 in 1928 to $25,289 last year or a total of about $1,270,000 for the eight-year period. This surplus might have been used for dividends except that the company was required to spend $620,000 for center pier protection on the Carquinez bridge at the order of the War Department and pay $150,000 for the Martinez-Benicia ferry. Other costs such as construction of toll houses, flooring

PLOT TOLD BY LONG IN POLICE QUIZ

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 1.—UP.—A new plot to assassinate Senator Huey P. Long was "revealed" by the dictator tonight as he resumed his "investigation" in the State supreme court chamber.

The inquiry, started to the accompaniment of skull cracking, martial law and threatened rebellion was to have unfolded details of last week's insurrection and the alleged conspiracy to murder him then.

But it also brought the disclosure of a telegram which said Long was to have been killed today, upon his return from Washington.

PLANS LAID

The telegram, purportedly sent to the Chicago Tribune from Hammond, La., and signed "George B. Campbell, editor of the Vindicator," said:

"Plans are well laid for the assassination of Huey Long on his return from Washington Friday. Under no circumstances quote me as my life would be jeopardized. Determined citizenry of Livingston, East and West Feliciana, Tangipahoa and St. Helena parishes, now to get revenge. This means bloodshed with the possibility of state-wide rebellion."

SUMMONS MADE

Long read the telegram aloud. He did not say how he got it. Judge W. D. Womack, Long's friend, who is "presiding" over the investigation, summoned Campbell to appear tomorrow and explain his telegram.

The new development interrupted Long's quest for details of an alleged plot to ambush him and his bodyguards on the Baton Rouge highway 10 days ago.

Up to this time the star witness had been Tobe Leblanc, who had (Continued on Page 8)

Masquerade Ball To Be Held Here Tonight By Club

All arrangements have been completed for the annual prize masquerade dance to be held this evening at Winter's ball by the Richmond Masqueraders.

A large and able committee including Joe Hirth (chairman), R. Barba, G. Becker, P. Schmittman, R. Schnabel, A. Pergande and J. Hume, are in charge of the affair which promises to be very successful. Judging from ticket sales it is anticipated that a record crowd will attend.

Dancing will start at 8 o'clock and the grand march will begin at 10:30 with Mayor George Imbach leading the march.

Prizes will be awarded to the best costumes. Five well known local citizens will act as judges.

Dog Poisoner Is At Work In City

Fears that the dog poisoner who has been killing scores of pets of Oakland residents may be working in this area were voiced yesterday when it was learned that two dogs had been poisoned in Richmond.

The animals were owned by G. Grosso, No. 8 Eddy street and Michael Kuhlberg, of 39 Washington avenue. An investigation is being made to determine the type of poison used in the killings.

In Oakland and Berkeley the poisoner had accounted for 34 dogs, victims of a fiendish, sadistic perversion.

Speaking of Sports

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—UP—When Manager (Bucky) Harris of the Senators recently said "nothing less than a pennant will satisfy me," he probably had his fingers crossed.

The 1935 Senators, as now constituted, are an "it" team. More than a dozen of the players are question marks. The club virtually is the same which slipped into the second division last year after winning the pennant in 1933.

In any event, Washington fans do not share Harris' enthusiasm. They are wondering IF:

LYN LARY
Lyn Lary will fill the bill at short stop in place of Joe Cronin, shipped to Boston in the famous $250,000 deal. Lary's big league batting record has fallen far below his Pacific Coast average.

Ed Linke's dead pitching arm will be healed sufficiently to permit him to fulfill the promise he displayed when he joined the club.

Monte Weaver will abandon his vegetable diet. Weaver's refusal to eat meat made him inconsistent last year.

Helme Manush's brittle legs will withstand another hot campaign.

JACK STONE
Jack Stone will find himself and burst forth as the star fielder he was purported to be.

Earl Whitehill again will be the club's ace pitcher.

Chief Bolton will be able to handle the regular catching assignment now that Luke Sewell has come. Redmond and Holbrook, two untried rookies, will be the only other receivers available.

Al Powell will fit into the center field picture. Powell, a natural hitter, joined the club in the waning days of the 1934 season.

SCHULTE'S FORM
Fred Schulte will retain his 1933 form and be able to step into Powell's shoes, should the rookie fail.

Bobby Burke, perennial question mark, will "argue" Burke, pitcher in spades, was one of the Senators' few effective slabsmen last year.

"Pump" Hadley, recently acquired from the Browns, will be the answer to Harris' prayer for another winning pitcher. Hadley is believed to have taken a new lease on life.

KUHEL'S ANKLE
Joe Kuhel's ankle has mended. Kuhel, regarded as one of the finest first-basemen in baseball, fractured his ankle midway in the last campaign and saw no more service.

Third-baseman Cecil Travis will polish up his fielding. Travis was one of last year's prize rookies. Although a natural hitter, however, he was no flash in the field.

Southpaw Walter Stewart will be able to win if not worked out of turn.

HIGH QUINTETS SPLIT 2 GAMES WITH ALAMEDA

Playing basketball in a manner that caused their supporters to say deep and nasty words under their breath, the Redwood High school basketball team last night lost a 27 to 16 decision to the Alameda team, second to beat Alameda in their first league game.

Both of the teams—Alameda and Richmond—played a very hot game from start to finish, with the Redwood boys out-starting the victory only in the sleeping sickness stage of the game. When the first half ended the score was 8 to 6 in favor of Alameda. This is only an indication of how the game looked.

In the opening game, the Richmond team showed that they, at least, were not asleep. They trampled home with a 21 to 12 victory. An Alameda with 8 points, was high man for the visitors.

Next Friday night after school the local team will meet the Berkeley squad here.

Mac Smith Leads In Golf Tourney

GLENDALE, Feb. 1.—UP—MacDonald Smith, veteran tournament player, was leading the field in the $6500 Oakmont open golf championships here today by five strokes.

Smith finished today's round in 67 which, with his 68 for the first round, gave him 135. Four were tied at 140 as most of the leading pros finished their afternoon rounds. They are Ray Manrum, Lex Robson, Jimmy Hines and Harry Cooper.

Movies Enjoyed By Wilson Dads Club At Meeting

Motion pictures were shown last night to members of the Woodrow Wilson Dads Club and their children at a meeting held in the school auditorium.

A large crowd of members attended the meeting, which was followed by refreshments.

The "movies" which proved to be the most interesting seen by the organization, included a reel showing the publishing of a newspaper. The work of reporters, printers and others was shown. The second film was of a trip through Alaska.

The next meeting of the Dads Club will be held in March.

Ex-Convict Is Held By Court On Theft Count

OAKLAND, Feb. 1.—UP—Despite the fact that his accuser repudiated the grand theft charges she had preferred against him, Charles Mitchell Dana, 31, was held to answer in the case by Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell today.

Mrs. Phena Erboch, 32, Oakland, brought the charges against Dana, ex-San Quentin convict.

According to police versions of the affair, Dana, who was said to have a business establishment in Portland, and Mrs. Erboch planned to be married last year. A state parole officer refused Dana permission for the ceremony.

Dana then left the state. Friends purportedly told Mrs. Erboch that Dana already was married. She then had him extradited from Oregon, and charged him with the theft of more than $100; a $600 diamond ring and a new automobile.

She said it all "had been a mistake" at today's hearing, and requested that the charges be withdrawn, but Judge Tyrrell ordered Dana held to answer in Superior court.

British, American Children Rescued From Pirate Crew

HONGKONG, Feb. 1.—UP—Forty British and American school children were expected in Hongkong today after a blood-curdling three days of wild adventure in the hands of pirates.

They had been seized as hostages aboard the steamer Tungschow, taken on a voyage in exactly the opposite direction to that in which they started, and had witnessed the murder of three men.

Today the Tungschow was found in Blue Bay, notorious rendezvous of piratical junks which prey on river shipping and inter-coastal trade in south China. None of the children had been harmed. The engineer of the steamer and two Russian guards were killed when the pirates attacked the steamer.

I'M STILL MARRIED TO HIM! DEAR, DEAR, I ALWAYS DID HAVE A FOTTEN MEMORY FOR DETAILS! SHOW HIM IN!

TEE-HEE! YASM!

OSCAR, DARLING! HOW I'VE MISSED YOU!

G-G-GLORIA?

OSCAR MAY NOT BE MUCH TO LOOK AT, BUT CERTAINLY IS GOING TO HAVE A TERRIFIC EFFECT ON JOE'S LIFE!

JURY PANEL FOR LAMSON TRIAL DRAWN

SAN JOSE, Feb. 1.—UP—A venire of 150 names was drawn today by Deputy County Clerk Albert J. Newlin for the jury which will hear David Lamson's retrial on charges of murdering his wife, Allen Thorpe Lamson.

The list of prospective jurors included Mrs. Elizabeth Dyer, San Jose, a member of the jury which heard Lamson's first trial. Also named were Nell Onyon, Mrs. Joseph McGovern and D. R. Alexander, who were on the venire panel drawn for the first trial jury.

Among the 83 men and 67 women whose names were included in the venire were Oliver Wells, a deputy under former Sheriff William J. Emig, who served occasionally as a bailiff in the first Lamson trial; Mrs. Lila Buffington, wife of former deputy sheriff Howard Buffington, a figure in the case; and W. J. Biezer, a deputy sheriff years ago.

MORE NAMES

The prospective jury list included 50 more names than the first panel drawn for Lamson's initial trial. The names were drawn from a new jury list filed by the Santa Clara superior court by Jury Commissioner Charles English.

Lamson was granted a retrial by the State Supreme Court, which reversed his conviction at the first trial. Start of the new trial will be this month.

Unwanted Wife Seeks Divorce

MARTINEZ, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Angelina F. Thomas of Richmond is plaintiff in a suit for divorce filed in superior court here today against Shreve Thomas through Attorney Leo Marcollo of Richmond.

She alleges her husband called her names, told her he wished she would "get out" and said he wanted his freedom.

Marriage of the couple took place on December 7, 1929 and they separated on June 25, 1934. Mrs. Thomas asks custody of minor children and $40 monthly alimony.

STOLE HOT WATER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UP)—When Peter Panatzeos was arrested he found himself in hot water. He had tapped a neighbor's hot water pipe and misappropriated the supply quite a period. It cost him a $25 fine.

Crew Rescued By Guard

MEMBERS OF the crew of the ill-fated Monark that sank off Sea Girt, N. J., after a collision with the Norwegian motorship Tallman, as they were brought to New York by the Coast Guard boat, Champlain.

Police Aroused By Discovery Of Explosive Theft

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—UP—Enough nitro glycerine to blow the heart of down-town to Kingdom Come was in the hands of the amateurs or worse, tonight.

Theft of a quart of the high explosive and a dozen caps was reported today by the owner of a suburban powder plant at Whittier. The door of the magazine had been jimmied some time early today.

Authorities were frankly worried. In the hands of expert safe crackers the explosives probably constituted a threat to property only, but police feared anti-social or worse, the type of anti-social crank found in all large cities.

Madera Ex-Sheriff Gets Marshal Job

FRESNO, Feb. 1.—UP—United States Marshal R. S. Clark today announced appointment of Weston C. Rhodes as deputy U. S. marshal for Central California.

Rhodes, sheriff of Madera county for eight years and former auditor of that county, will succeed the late Sidney J. Shannon. He is president of the sheriff's association of California.

Lassen County Hospital Burns

SUSANVILLE, Feb. 1.—UP—Fire destroyed the Lassen county hospital late today, forcing 28 patients to flee for their lives into the snow surrounding the institution.

Hospital attendants carried seven helpless patients to safety while the flames raced through the building.

Muddy roads which blocked fire fighting equipment, hindered efforts to extinguish the blaze. The $10,000 loss was covered by insurance.

Tip-Off Woman Under Arrest

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—UP—Ruth King, 21, suspected of warning a Lone Beach murder suspect to leave California, was held today on a technical charge of vagrancy.

Police charged that she probably "tipped" Harry Arax to leave Sacramento. Arax is wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of Patrolman William J. MacLean in Lone Beach last December. The girl insisted that she had been friendly toward Arax only because "he threatened to kill me if I left." "I don't care what happens to him now," she declared.

Il Duce Waves Sword In Talk To Black Shirts

ROME, Feb. 1.—UP—Premier Benito Mussolini called upon the Italian people today to "work, fight, and sacrifice at the same time" and told 10,000 of his crack Black Shirt militia that in Europe today it is strength that really counts.

Il Duce, entered the historic Borghese Gardens to receive the oath of allegiance from 1,000 structures in the juvenile Fascist army.

He told his people their strength lay in preparedness for conflict, even to going across the frontiers if necessary to protect Italy.

"Today's celebration," he cried, "brings our minds back to my 'armored tank' speech—namely, that the Italian people must be workers and soldiers at the same time."

"It is more true today than ever, that in relations between nations it is strength that really counts."

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia. (UP)—A burglar raided Roy McMullen's home here and lifted an old wallet containing one $100 bill, three $20 bills and one $10 note, all Confederate money.

which might be named in the eastern end of the county. While not in the business of raising stones, he is known to all and sundry that Phisburgh is famed not alone in Contra Costa but throughout the entire State as a "wide-open town" in fact that city seems to pride itself on this kind of a reputation, yet its name is never mentioned as among the municipal outcasts and pariahs when gambling and other forms of vice are being discussed by the upper county press. No, it is always "the western end of the county" where vice is presumed to flourish like the green bay tree. That kind of stuff gets very tiresome, particularly when the intent to throw mud is so evident.

NOT LILY WHITE

And Martinez himself, has no lily white reputation as to observance of the gambling laws, if anyone should ask in the county seat you can find anything you are looking for and it will not be necessary to employ a guide to reach the destination desired. In fact no attempt is made at concealment but one would think from the Martinez papers that places of vice are the only forms of amusement that exist there. It has only been a short time ago that one of the city dads arose in council meeting and "spilled the beans" but later recanted and the matter was hushed up. There are other vice-sites, too, and not in the western end of the county either, which have no say or criticism as to the morals or lack of them in other places. Many of them show their good sense by maintaining a discreet silence.

We want it known that the western part of Contra Costa is no modern Sodom or Gomorrah and if certain papers and people persist in painting such a picture of us, nothing will restrain us from going into details which will indubitably prove, that although not entirely without sin, our record will be spotless compared with those who are engaged in the dirty pastime of throwing mud in our direction.

Woman Admits Shooting Man

Woman Admits Shooting Man

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Feb. 1.—UP—Lawrence Lister, 40, owner of a Klamath Falls meat market, was shot several times and killed tonight in his rooming house.

A few minutes after the fusillade of shots, Marian Meyerle, 35, walked into the police station and said: "I've just shot a man." She was placed in a cell without being questioned.

Lister's body, coat and shoes off, was found under a wash basin in his room. A pistol was on the floor.

Mrs. J. North heads the refreshment committee. Mrs. J. L. Marsala for a foot infection.

SISTER KILLER PAYS PENALTY ON GALLOW

FOLSOM PRISON, Feb. 1.—UP—Harold P. Bieber, 41, who repeatedly asked that he be granted no leniency, and today on Folsom's prison grounds for the fatal shooting of his wife, Lona Blair.

His body plummeted through the electric trap at 10 a. m. Twelve minutes later prison physicians pronounced him dead.

Bieber readily admitted stabbing his wife November 18, 1934, in a fit of rage. He asserted that he was not a neurotic, in the words of a neurologist. He asked the trial judge to order his hanging and wrote Governor Frank Merriam asking that no clemency be extended to him.

"I am guilty of cold-blooded murder," he declared, insisting that he should be hanged "so the people will be satisfied with a life for a life."

Yesterday Bieber sent a brief letter to the governor, applying for executive clemency. He explained, however, that he had sent the letter at his sister's request, and "for the sake of his mother."

Guards and witnesses said Bieber exhibited no fear as he stepped to the gallows. He left no notes, or made no statements.

Train Suicide Leaves Small Local Estate

MARTINEZ, Feb. 1.—Hugh Sisson, one time wealthy Shasta county cattleman, who committed suicide September 17 last by leaping from the tracks and allowing Southern Pacific train at Richmond to decapitate him, left an estate valued at less than $50,000 according to a petition Raymond B. Johnson, public administrator, filed in superior court here today asking administration. The estate consists of interest in property in Richmond.

After Sisson's death police instituted search for a woman, supposedly his wife, who disappeared from a San Francisco hotel about the time of the discovery of the cattleman's body.

Johnson's petition was filed through Attorneys J. E. Dodge and A. F. Dray.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The decision of the Supreme Court on the gold clause—when the Capital breathlessly expects on Monday—probably will be based on two things.

One is Dooley's epigram to the effect that: "The Constitution follows the flag. The Supreme Court follows the election returns."

The other is the background, the traditions, the life experiences of the justices who sit upon the highest court in the land. Probe into their youths, the environment in which they developed, the type of law they practiced and you get a reasonably accurate gauge of how they line up, now.

CONSERVATIVES

Take, for instance, the outstanding member of the conservative group on the supreme bench.

As a lawyer of twenty-five, Willis Van Devanter migrated from Marion, Indiana, to the Territory of Wyoming whose laws he helped to frame, and whose vast virgin land he helped to open as an attorney for the Union Pacific railroad.

It is not unnatural, therefore, that Van Devanter's opinions should be tinged with rugged individualism. He is a fervid opponent of any vestige of government control or regulation of industry. Once he wrote the famous opinion in the case of Pennsylvania vs. West Virginia by which the people of West Virginia sought, through the State legislature, to prevent the export of natural gas until their own needs had been met. Van Devanter ruled against them. He is now 75 years old.

Justice George Sutherland, 73, who usually is found on the same side as Van Devanter, also inherited his economic philosophy from the laissez-faire days of the pioneer West.

Born in England, Sutherland was taken by his parents to Utah, where he eventually aligned himself with the Mormon-Republican machine, was elected to the House, then the Senate.

As a Senator, Sutherland was known for his intensive road measure, his extreme conservatism, his unswerving party regularity and his friendship with Warren Harding, who rewarded him with appointment to the Supreme Court after Senator King defeated him.

On the Court, Sutherland has become famous for his opinion blocking the minimum wage, the child labor law, the Oklahoma law, and every other piece of legislation which the New Deal now stands for.

James Clark McReynolds, 73, is the son of a small town Kentucky doctor, who migrated to Tennessee. There his son came to know McAdoo, who came from that State and who recommended him as Attorney General, when Woodrow Wilson at the last moment had rejected Brandeis for that post.

Having discovered that McReynolds was nothing more than a fundamentalist small-town lawyer, Wilson got rid of him by promotion to the Supreme Court, where, ever since he has been the Court's most energetic fighter against workmen's compensation and other forms of social insurance now proposed by President Roosevelt. He will always be remembered for checking the use of the Mann Act for blackmail purposes and for his undisguised readiness to liberal members of the Court.

MISS HEPBURN TO BE STARRING IN FILM AT FOX

"The Little Minister" Katherine Hepburn, newest starring vehicle, comes to the Fox theater tomorrow on a program with "The March of Time" sensational picture, dramatization of the famous radio broadcast put on over national hookups by Time.

"The Little Minister" shoots its star, Katherine Hepburn to a new peak of dramatic achievement with her characterization of Sir James Barrie's madcap heroine, the fiery Babbie, made famous on the stage.

The screen dramatization of the immortal story of conflict arising out of the fervent love of the wild gypsy girl and the fighting little minister, includes John Beale, young New York stage star, as Gavin, Others in the cast are Alan Hale, Reginald Denny, Bert Mercer, and Andy Clyde.

DOUBLE PROGRAM TODAY

Fannie Hurst's "Imitation of Life" with Claudette Colbert and Warren William starred, ends its run today at the Fox on the same program with "Feldorado," romantic adventure starring Richard Arlen, Madge Evans, Stepin Fetchit and others.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Busby Berkeley, having completed his job directing "Gold Diggers of 1935" and stating that picture's production numbers as well, will create five dance ensemble specialties for "In Caliente," in which Dolores Del Rio is starring for First National. Berkeley is in the throes of creation at this moment and is expected to begin rehearsals by the end of next week.

Meanwhile, the "In Caliente" cast and production personnel, having returned from Aquia Caliente in Mexico, where they worked on location, are now completing the story of sequences of the film under the direction of Lloyd Bacon. The cast of the picture is large and includes Pat O'Brien, Leo Carrillo, Glenda Farrell, Edward Everett Horton, Harry Holman, Herman Bing, Phil Regan, Winifred Shaw, Olive Jones, John Hyams and Florence Fair. The original story was written by Ralph Block and Warren Duff, Jerry Wald and Julius Epstein made the adaptation.

The First National home office has held a preview of Barbara Stanwyck's latest picture, "The Woman in Red" for its executives. "The Woman in Red" was filmed from an adaptation of a novel called "North Shore" by Wallace Irwin. Miss Stanwyck is supported by a cast including Gene Raymond, Genevieve Tobin, John Eldridge, Dorothy Tree, Claude Gillingwater, Phillip Reed, Russell Hicks, Arthur Treacher, Doris Lloyd, Nella Walker, Fred Vocking, Ed Van Sloan, Hale Hamilton, Gordon Elliott, Brandon Hurst, Forrester Harvey, Ann Shoemaker and Jan Buckling. Ann, Robert Florey directed. The screen play was written by Mary McCall, Jr., and Peter Milne.

Director Mervyn LeRoy, with Pat O'Brien, Josephine Hutchinson, Jean Muir, Lyle Talbot, John Eldridge and other members of the cast, have started production on "Oil for the Lamps of China" on location at Big Pine, in the Mojave Desert. The production unit will be in the desert for about a week and will then return to the Warner Bros. studios in Burbank, where the rest of the picture will be filmed. "Oil for the Lamps of China" is based on the best-selling novel by Alice Tisdale Hobart.

Al Shean, of the immortal partnership of Gallagher and Shean, has joined the cast of "Traveling Saleslady," a new comedy picture with Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, William Gargan, Hugh Herbert, Ruth Donnelly, Grant Mitchell and others. Shean recently completed an important comedy role in "Sweet Music." Rudy Vallee's starring picture, which is to be released this month.

Donald Woods has been added to the cast of "The Case of the Curious Bride," the Eric Stanley Gardner mystery thriller which will go into production soon. Warren William heads the cast as Perry Mason, detective superlative; Margaret Lindsay (with whom Woods has been appearing in "The Foretelling Dagger") is leading woman; and other players will be Clark, Dodd, Barton MacLane and Phillip Reed.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—It's about time someone settled the argument as to how many residents of the town are native New Yorkers.

Casual inquiry would seem to indicate that no one on this mad, currying island was actually born here. The population is apparently comprised solely of adventurous souls from every small town in the United States, and the general tradition would have it that successful New Yorkers must hail from Little Rock, Chicago or Butte if they expect to attain their goal.

The native (son of New York, on the other hand, would seem to be a quiet, subdued little fellow who still retains the innocence of his childhood years. He minds his own business, stays at home of an evening and reads the newspapers when he wants to find out about all the exciting quines in his home territory. He lets the "foreigners" do all the go-getting, prefers a peaceful and untroubled life, and is constantly surprised to hear that the real New Yorker is a jittery, restless person constantly on the hunt for new thrills.

The facts, however, tend to disprove these general impressions. Exact statistics are not available, but the nearest figures at the present moment show the number of New York City residents who were born in New York State. In the Federal census four years ago they amounted to 3,763,000, or more than half the population of the city. A conservative estimate would make about one-quarter of the total population native-born.

Queens Borough apparently has the largest indigenous group by the test of origin in New York State. Two out of three residents of Queens are native New Yorkers, as against slightly more than one in two in the Bronx, and only two out of five in Manhattan.

The great exodus from Manhattan to the newer boroughs, which began with the new century and sped up enormously after the World War, drew more largely on the younger people of foreign stock. Their immigrant parents tended to remain where they first settled. The native-born children emigrated to

Townsend Plan Not Cock-Eyed Author Asserts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—UP—Francis E. Townsend today explained to the House Ways and Means committee his vision of how the generation over 60 can spend the nation back to prosperity on $200 a month if the government will provide the money.

Then, before committee members could question him, he explained that he had just left a hospital and was under doctor's orders not to get excited. He asked to be excused from further testimony.

But he warned the administration that every time an official called his plan "cock-eyed" or "fantastic"—as Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins and Secretary of Labor Perkins have described it—thousands of persons join his movement, which he now numbers at 20,000,000 supporters. The plan would retire all citizens of 60; would give them $200 monthly government pension.

NO ONE KNOWS HOW MONEY IS TO BE SPENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—UP—Secret hearings by the Senate Appropriations Committee on the $4,850,000,000 works bill ended today with the forecast of Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes that 600,000 workers could be employed in a year on projects under consideration by the administration.

He emphasized he had not permitted politics to influence appointments made by his bureau.

IRONICAL SUGGESTION

Secrecy surrounding the huge fund was exemplified today when Chairman Carter Glass, unable to get information from Ickes on how the money would be allocated suggested ironically that perhaps the measure should be amended to entrust this task to the Interior secretary. Ickes joined in the fun by replying that he would not remonstrate against such action but did not advocate it.

GLASS IRRITATED

Irritated by the futility of his committee's inquiry Glass appeared today to measure up even more fully to the role of "unreconstructed rebel" ascribed to him by President Roosevelt many months ago. He predicted the chief executive's wishes that the fund be not earmarked would be followed "because no one knows enough about it to earmark it."

In reply to questions, Glass said sharply:

"We couldn't find out how the money would be spent. If you want to know, ask President. Roosevelt as he seems to be the only one who has this vital information."

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By MARIAN MAYE MARTIN

Influenza Epidemic Comes in Several Stages, Ending in Severe Bronchitis or Pneumonia

FOR the last three or four weeks, the physicians have noted and newspapers reported an increase in the number of cases of influenza in various parts of the country. Now it comes from Chicago and vicinity that influenza has reached epidemic proportions there and that a large number of cases are developing pneumonia with a serious increase in the death rate. A report like this causes apprehension and dread to the physician, especially to those who were unfortunate enough to have experienced the epidemics of 1889-90 and 1918-20.

Influenza is a peculiar disease, one that we do not know where it comes from, whether it goes it has been known for many centuries, usually starting in Eastern Europe and rapidly spreading over all the world. Its spread was so rapid that many thought it was carried by the wind. Now that the wind is comparatively slow in comparison with streamlined trains and airplanes it still spreads with great rapidity.

The disease is undoubtedly present in mild form at all times in the cities and densely populated districts, but it is only at long intervals that it reaches serious and epidemic proportions. Apparently an epidemic starts suddenly, but that is because our attention is not called to the first phase.

AS a general thing there are three phases to an epidemic. At first, there is a marked increase in the number of cases of simple gripe. The attack begins suddenly with chilliness accompanied by a feeling of burning and apprehension. This is followed by severe aching pains throughout the whole body, especially severe in the back, the legs and arms, with headache.

There is rapid rise of fever, often quite high. The patient weakens very rapidly and in a very short time may become too weak to walk or sit up. He is listless and does not want to be disturbed or moved. The face and neck become flushed, the eyes red and watery.

There is a free discharge of fluid from the nose, the throat is sore and the voice husky. There is usually a feeling of burning pain under the upper end of the breast bone with a dry cough. In children, sick stomach and vomiting are common. The head and throat symptoms develop rapidly with a feeling of burning and irritation in nose, throat and upper chest with an increase in the cough and expectoration. The fever lasts for three or four days, gradually subsiding and recovery is quite rapid, except for general weakness and often prolonged bronchial cough.

If the disease spreads to the bronchial tubes, recovery may be delayed a great deal by this complication. This type of disease may be all we see for three to six weeks and it seems to subside, then suddenly we find the second type appearing, which is now showing up in Chicago and other parts of the country.

IN THIS phase, a large per cent of the patients develop severe bronchitis and pneumonia. The disease starts in the same way as the simple form with rapid development of serious lung complications. The bronchitis and pneumonia act like no other forms of this disease.

We see all degrees of them, but the great prostration and severe poisoning are far greater than should be expected. The pneumonia develops very rapidly and unless stopped quickly, death in from twenty-four to thirty-six hours is common.

The breathing becomes rapid, the fever rises and falls, the face grows blue and pinched. There may be delirium, in which the patient feels he must get up and go to his work, or he soon sinks to a low muttering delirium. They grow worse so rapidly that no treatment has any effect.

In the milder types the prostration is not so severe. The cough becomes loosened with the spitting of blood stained sputum, the breathing is easier, the face is not so cyanotic. Recovery is slow and unless complications appear, the condition slowly clears up. Otis Media and Mastoid disease frequently follow, also chronic sinusitis, while severe melancholia and mental depression are common.

Guide to Charm NEW COIFFURE PUTS THRILL IN DULL SEASONS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

A NEW coiffure will do more than anything to give life and zest to the dull "in-between" season and to get you ready for the thrilling parties of mid-February. This is a good time to experiment. Fortunately, hairdressers, although interested in styling your hair to set off your best features, realize that this can be accomplished best when your hair is in good condition.

The most extensively styled coiffure will not give you the charm it should or stay in place unless the hair is glossy and full of spring. Follow the reconditioning and hot oil treatments that I have described for you in the last few columns, and set aside a definite time each night for brushing the hair.

Get your new hair cut and trim the hair to fall where you want it. If you want to modify the style, you can do so by modifying the new style somewhat, experiment with it so you know exactly how you want your hair to be before you get a new permanent. Then the operator will know how to place the swirls and waves and ringlets for the best effect.

Also, if you work out your new coiffure now, your hair will have grown sufficiently in a month or so to make it about the right length for the new curl.

There is nothing startlingly new about coiffures right now. You have every chance in the world to assert your individuality. It is always safe to avoid extremes, yet a complete change in style is advisable occasionally. Of course, you must keep in mind the general shape of your face. If it is as round as a full moon, do not try to copy the latest Garbo or Crawford coiffure, but let your hairdresser show you how a ship here or a little puff around the crown will do to lengthen your face.

Bangs are still being worn occasionally, but they never cover the entire forehead and they are usually cut quite far back so they fall in a double row of soft, but well defined ringlets. They are worth trying if you have a slender, well-proportioned face and nice forehead, or if you go to the other extreme and have a very low forehead with an otherwise slender or heart-shaped face.

For the thin-faced girl there are long bobs, tousled curls or softly sculptured arrangements of waves and ringlets. Most of the coiffures end at the natural hairline in the back and ears are usually partly or wholly exposed. Hats being what they are at the moment—mostly down in front or on the right side, most emphasis is placed on the left side and back of the head.

A few off-the-face hats have appeared. These are especially becoming to the youthful face with lovely eyes and a smooth, fair forehead.

Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Who Takes Charge of the Saar, Is a Reformer Who Is Fond of Blue Laws

WHEN the people of the Saar voted a return to Germany they also voted for some new blue laws, although they probably did not know this. However, the region is to be governed by Dr. Wilhelm Frick, and where Dr. Frick goes in, dancing and jazz go out. Now 55 years old, the Herr Doktor is a cold puritanical and somewhat hard-boiled official who will not hesitate to enact or decree the laws he likes. He is Minister of the Interior.

Dr. Frick has been a leading figure in the Nazi thesis of culture. During the World War he was kept out of actual fighting because of a physical handicap, and became a Government official in 1922. He was a high police official in Munich. Suddenly along came Hitler with his famous beer hall "putsch" which failed miserably. Frick did not see fit to arrest Hitler. Instead he joined him.

This led to his arrest and sentence to confinement for fourteen months. He was released in a few weeks, however, and from then on he was a part of Hitler's movement. He joined the League of Nations and those who did not vote for German rule were not persecuted—nor put under any disadvantage.

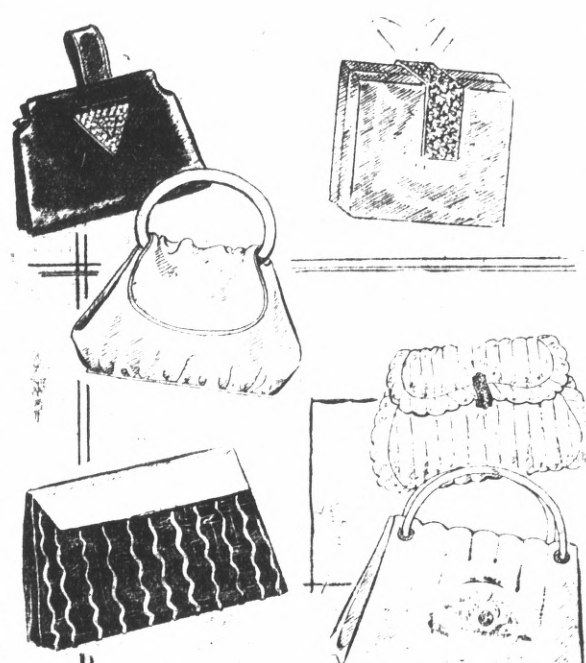

As Dr. Frick's fortunes rose so did Dr. Frick's. In 1930 the Nazis won their first ministry, that of Thuringia. Dr. Frick got the post and immediately put his ideas into effect. His first decree was a ban on jazz music. Then he put on a crusade against all modern forms of art and literature, calling it alien to the German spirit. He banished all paintings by Jews from the Weimar Museum, and set professors to work to find who was "uncontaminated." They discovered only Germans free of taint.

This went on for some time, but Dr. Frick eventually made a mistake by putting in Thuringian schools a prayer invoking divine vengeance on liberals and dissenters from his program. This was too much for the Reich, the national governing body, and the Herr Doktor was ousted. This, however, only served to endear him all the more to Hitler. When the latter finally got supreme power he placed his friend as Minister of the Interior.

While Dr. Frick has always been particularly severe on dissenters, it is only fair to note that he has promised the League of Nations that those who did not vote for German rule will not be persecuted—nor put under any disadvantage.

QUESTION: "I have rather slender well-shaped hands, but they look much better with smartly shaped, pointed nails. However, I must do my own housework and I find they break badly. How can I make the nails more flexible and prevent breaking?"—Mrs. E."

It can't be done! Even if you are a devotee of gloves—rubber gloves for water jobs and cloth gloves for dusting and cleaning—you'll find that long, pointed nails will break. Even when they are perfectly normal and flexible. You'll have to modify the shape. How about an almond shape, filed rather close at the sides.

QUESTION: "I never used lipstick until a few months ago, since my lips naturally had a good color. Since I have started using the lipstick, however, my lips are rough, dry and sore and have an ugly purplish color after I have removed the lipstick. Could the lipstick be to blame?"—Martha."

It is possible that you are using an inferior grade of lipstick and that it is causing the trouble. I certainly would discontinue using it if I were in your place. Cleanse your mouth and lips when you cleanse your skin at night and massage the lips from side to side a few minutes with toilet lanoline, camphor ice or one of the colorless pomades. Use a light pomade as a finish when you go out during the day. Avoid lipsticks for awhile and then invest in a soft, creamy one of a good brand and use it only for evening and special occasions.

New York—One can hardly have gone through the winter to date without having noticed the hardware gadgets that are so much in demand for dress trimmings. Chromium is the most generally favored. There are not only great modernistic looking clasps and what-nots, but chains as well. Chains are usually used across the front of the belt or collar.

Ways of making costume jewelry serve a useful as well as a decorative purpose. Necklaces may now be a part of the frock, sometimes the sleeves swing from them as Lanvin has delightfully demonstrated. Clasps have, of course, long been a part of the dress design. So many dresses have been designed around them, and a lesser number have been chained to either bracelets or necklaces, that all this seems to have encouraged even a closer connection between dress and its ornaments.

Sketched today are some new bags. At upper left—Model of dark green transparent velvet with thumb strap and large triangular strass clip.

Below is a simple white kidskin with composition bracelet handle. Opposite is a vanity type of gold metal cloth, with a band across paved with brilliants.

Below this is a white ribbed metal cloth with padded edge and jeweled liftock. The other is of white calf, with metal rings holding the double handles and with a scalloped top.

The model at lower left is of navy calf patterned in white and with a white calf flapover. At right of the column is a gown fashioned of a novelty taffeta, in three shades of red and white. The neckline high at the front, with width at the shoulders, adopts a deep cut at the back.

You and Your Child

DULL-SEEMING BOY DESERVES EQUAL CHANCE

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

DO YOU consider your child dull? Have you ever told him that he looks, acts or is "stupid"? Of course, you may not have meant it at the time. You were out of sorts, and his clumsiness fanned your mood, provoking you to say what you later may have regretted.

Or—and this is not uncommon in families of several children where one or more reveal special talents—you really may regard a given child as being a dullard. If you feel this way, even though you refrain from telling him that he is stupid he is bound to guess what you are thinking. He will see the limiting looks directed toward the brighter ones, when you least suspect it. He will notice that you fondle them more, and will resent it.

A sensitive child will brood about his position in the family. From feeling insecure with them, he begins to doubt himself.

The gifted child at least feels secure in his parents' affections, however else he may be spoiled. His parents take the attitude that his talent must be encouraged at any cost. Usually it is charged to the account of some just-normal brother or sister.

Parents make a mistake when they believe that intellectual attainment is everything. Compared with a brilliant child's musicianship, Plain John's interest in football or carpentry or electric wiring may seem unimportant. But for Plain John it is important that he grow according to his own nature and have our encouragement, love and praise.

An exceptional child should be exceptional only in that he has an outstanding talent, and not in his all-around development. He should be encouraged to work with tools and play at games as a normal child. His brother, on the other hand, should have opportunities and the encouragement for experimenting with various art forms. Thus you pave the way for both children to live richer, fuller lives.

MODERN WOMEN

This Girl Feels Slighted Because Her Fiance Does Not Want a Formal Wedding and Honeymoon

"DEAR MRS. MARTIN: I am to be married early this spring and my fiance and I are having a few arguments about a wedding trip, and also about the ceremony.

Naturally, I want to be a real bride, with a veil and all the trimmings, and naturally—or so I think—I want a honeymoon trip. "My friend says that the money we would blow in on a trip would be better saved or put into our house, and that he thinks we shouldn't go away at all. We are to live in the town in which we both have lived always and most of our friends have taken trips, cruises and so on. We have no car, but hope to get one a little later.

"Now, Mrs. Martin, I am going to be awfully disappointed if we don't go somewhere and I don't think it is silly to want a wedding formal enough for me to wear white satin and a veil. I can't see why it would cost so much. My mother has said I could have what I want at your wedding. I mean, why not want a real wedding. Don't you think I should have my way about my own wedding?"

Short Cuts

Air the dining room well before serving the meal. Or, if it does not cause a draught, it is a good idea to keep a window open during the meal. In this way you stave off that heavy, sluggish feeling. Also, leisure while dining is an aid to digestion.

If you have no appetite for breakfast in the morning it may be that you sleep in a room that is not airy.

Far From Snow and Ice

In the warm climes the resort season has produced some striking new bathing suit novelties, which will be seen in the world next summer. The standing girl wears kilts and a cape of gray jersey, colorfully embroidered over a shiny gray satin bathing suit. The girl sitting on her white linen coat wears a white linen one-piece suit, having trunks and a halter of brown peau d'ange.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "Is it necessary to warm the plates in which the meat course is to be served?"—Mrs. F. G.

ANSWER: Hot meat should be served on warm plates.

QUESTION: "Please tell me what is the correct position for the water glass and the butter plate in setting the table?"—B. B.

ANSWER: The bread and butter plate goes at the left at each setting, beyond and above the fork. The water glass belongs at the right, above the knife.

QUESTION: "Is it necessary to have a special rack for finger-tip towels in the bathroom? I received a dozen as a gift and really do not know how to use them."—Agnes E.

ANSWER: Consider the finger-tip towel as a small guest towel. They may be arranged on a rack for guest towels alone, or together with the customary guest towels.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feelings is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and out." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills, ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute, 5c each, drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

STATE HITS NEW STORY BY EXPERT

David T. Wilentz that his story began to take shape and substance.

The witness declared that on March 1 he had been at a New Jersey town giving instruction in finger printing and that on his return to New York he saw on a ferry boat a man and a woman carrying a baby. The man, he said, was Fisch and the woman was Miss Sharpe. The baby, he said, was the Lindbergh child. Sommers identified Fisch and Miss Sharpe from photographs showed him.

Piece by piece the defense was building up its contention that two men—neither of whom was Hauptmann—kidnaped the baby. Yesterday, Lon Harding, a laborer, swore he saw two men on a New Jersey road in an automobile that contained the ladder found on the Lindbergh estate after the kidnapping. These two men, he said, asked him to direct them to the Lindbergh home on the day of the kidnapping.

INTO MAZE

Then Wilentz got up for cross examination and led Sommers into a maze of contradictions until at last the witness sat back sullenly in his chair and kept repeating: "I won't say yes and I won't say no."

So now—one week after the State rested its case and the defense began calling witnesses—it becomes clear what line of strategy Hauptmann's lawyers will pursue.

GANG THEORY

They will try to prove that a gang kidnaped the baby and that Isidor Fisch was a member of the gang. That will explain how Fisch got the ransom money which he is supposed to have left with Hauptmann when he sailed off to Germany to die.

Hauptmann could not have committed the crime alone—as the indictment charges—because he was, in Christian Frederick's bakery on the night of March 1, and there are four people who have sworn to it—Mrs. Hauptmann, Louis Kiss, August Von Henke and Elbert Carlstrom.

MORE EXPERTS

Furthermore, Hauptmann didn't write the 14 ransom notes, as a State expert said he did, because J. M. Trendley of East St. Louis, Ill., a defense handwriting expert, testified today that all the notes were written by a left-handed man who was trying to disguise his script. Hauptmann is right handed.

A mysterious postcard that appeared at the defense table today indicates that Reilly may attempt to prove that Fisch made Hauptmann the innocent victim of the whole business. That he imitated Hauptmann's handwriting in the ransom notes and that, when he knew he was about to die, he saddled off on Hauptmann the material evidence of the crime—the $14,600 ransom.

States. "All patriots of Mexico are contributing to the revolution from one to ten thousand pesos. Everybody contributes what he can."

RECEIVING ARMS DAILY

"In the north we are receiving arms daily from the United States. In the south we are raising army supplies until we have arms in abundance."

Our bands have defeated Federal troops on several occasions recently, adding their arms to ours. Federal troops do not care to fight against us, and only do so when forced by their commanders."

CHARGES, DICTATORSHIP

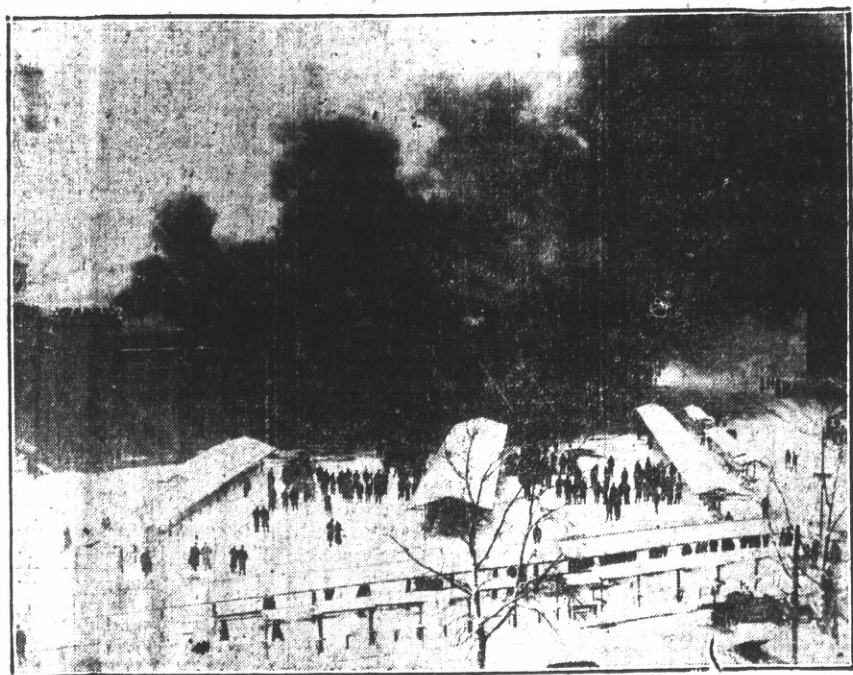

"We are determined to fight until Mexico has a real constitutional government. We have not had a government for a long time, but have been under a dictator."

"We believe in freedom of religious worship and point to the example of the United States in this regard. We will obey the constitution but not the present government's interpretation of the constitution."

able at all times. This water is from a well in the park and comes from a fountain and runs into the pool through an ornamental rock channel. The upland birds drink from this channel or go to the pool where the waterfowl congregate. The pool averages about six to 24 inches in depth and we have an island in the center of it where waterfowl like to gather for rest. Ramps or ways are provided so the waterfowl can easily get from the pool to the lawn and back again.

COST IS TOLD
As work progressed we found various items that ran up the cost of materials to about $500. As the Lions Club had pledged out selves to pay all costs of materials, we had to assume this added cost, so we put busy through subscription among our own members and some from others who were interested and through a baseball game we made the grade and raised the amount necessary.

"The aviary was completed about the middle of August, 1934, and we put some birds that we had in the old aviary into the new quarters. Among these were Chinese and Golden Pheasants, quail and two or three kinds of wild ducks."

PRESENTED AVIARY
"On September 4, 1934, the club presented the aviary to the city and at that time turned over to the mayor a check in the sum of $600."

"A large sign was constructed and placards with colored pictures of the birds, a short description of them and of their habits and the name of the person, club or organization presenting them were installed."

"After the birds are received and placed in the aviary, the City of Richmond assumes charge of them and pays costs of feeding, etc."

GAME BIRDS ONLY
"The aviary is unique in that it will be reserved for game birds only. There are many aviaries throughout the country, but very few of this kind and we hope to make it an object of outstanding interest from both scientific and recreational viewpoints."

Faith, then announced the following list of birds presented to the aviary and the names of their donors:

Gambel Partridge, by C. M. Seabrook, Genes, Calif.; California valley quail, by city of Richmond; Bob White quail (donor unknown) ruffed grouse, by New York State Association of Lions Clubs; mourning dove, by Dr. E. H. Anderson, of Oakland; band tailed pigeon, by M. E. Marr, Richmond; golden pheasant, A. C. Coster, Richmond; Chukar partridge, donor not known; redhead duck, by C. L. Best, San Jose; canvasback duck, (donor unknown); buffhead duck, (donor unknown).

MANY DUCKS
The following species of river and pond ducks are now at the aviary: Pintail, given by the city of Oakland; baldpate, by Dr. H. E. Anderson, Oakland; wood duck, by Harry Botger, Richmond; mallard, by C. L. Best, San Jose; shoveller, by U. S. Biological survey; gadwall, by Modesto Properties Co., Modesto; cinnamon teal, Modesto Properties Co.; green-winged teal, C. L. Best of San Jose; green-winged teal, by U. S. Expectant Mother Takes Ant Poison

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—UP—A 22-year-old expectant mother, called the night clerk at a San Francisco hotel last night and asked him to call an ambulance because she was stricken with ptomaine poisoning. Today she was dead, a suicide, according to police.

At Central Emergency hospital, she told attendants a salad had disagreed with her. Doctors treated her for ptomaine and put her to bed.

Five hours later, her condition rapidly becoming grave, the girl admitted she had taken ant poison. She died five minutes later.

"I wanted to die," she explained haltingly, adding: "I was married."

She died five minutes later. has the following birds: whistling swan, by Merchants Bank, Richmond; Canada Goose, gift of City Manager J. A. McVittie and tule geese, J. H. Beck, El Cerrito city councilman.

MANY DONORS
In addition to the above birds, orders have been made for a pair of Florida ducks, to be given by the American Trust company; for one Greater Scaup and one Lesser Scaup (commonly known as blue-bill ducks) from the American Legion and one very rare species of Rosa Goose, a present of the Hellenic Society of Richmond.

In addition to those who have donated birds to the aviary, many others have given cash to be used for the purchase of fowl. Paris has in his office a complete list of those who have given sums ranging from one dollar to a hundred for this work—"a list that includes industrial, business, housewives, fraternal and civic organizations and individuals of the city of Richmond."

The success of the project has been so marked that suggestions have been made that another aviary for song birds be sponsored by a Richmond service club, to be located adjacent to the Lions Club aviary.

TWO WOMEN ABDUCTED BY BANDIT GANG

SMITH CENTER, Kan., Feb. 1.—UP—Three men, one of them masked, two of them carrying submachine guns, looted the first National bank of $1500 here today. In their flight they kidnaped six bank employees, two of them women.

The men were released unharmed two miles east of here. The women were freed two miles further east.

HOSTAGES ROBBED
The hostages were M. H. Hill, bank president; K. D. Ottmann, vice president; R. W. McLeod, cashier; G. E. Conn, bookkeeper; Milford Ford and M. S. Alta Hagedorn, stenographers.

The women were placed in the rear seat of the bandit car, which had been stolen in Jewell county last night. The men were forced to ride on the running boards, two on each side.

The bandits robbed their hostages, taking rings and purses.

IN PURSUIT
Shortly after the women were released, the robbers stopped at the farm home of C. B. Davis, nine miles from here. They threatened the Davis family, cut telephone wires, repaired a flat tire and counted their loot before continuing east.

Possemen were in pursuit and officers ahead on the route the fugitives were following were warned by telephone.

November Will Be Date Of Car Show Under Code

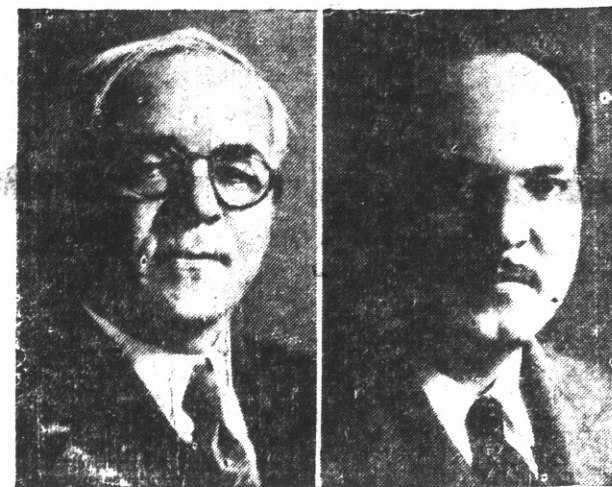

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—UP—The annual automobile show will be moved from January to the first week of November under provisions of the extended NRA code for the industry.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association tonight said that in an effort to stabilize employment of automobile workers it had agreed to bring out new models within 60 days before and after October 1, starting this year.

Directors of the association decided that the first auto show exhibiting new models shall be held not later than November.

er in the automobile industry attacked continuance of the automobile labor relations board as "a genuine and real menace to the trade union movement."

PROTEST MADE

William Green, nauncy president of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee to support 24-hour week legislation and protested vigorously against the extension of the NRA code for the automobile industry.

President Roosevelt last night extended the code until June 16 with two concessions from the manufacturers.

RENEWED CODE

"We will not accept it, recognize it or yield to it," Green said in denouncing the code.

Green said that labor had asked repeatedly for amendments to the code on each renewal date, but each time its wishes were turned down. Labor finally concluded that its interests would be served better with no code at all and on advice of counsel, it recently withdrew all connections with the automobile labor board, headed by Dr. Leo Wolman.

PLOT TOLD BY LONG IN POLICE QUIZ

mitted taking part in last Saturday's "battle of the airport." In which members of the anti-Long Square Deal Association lined up menacingly a gain at National Guardsmen who were enforcing martial law.

Leblanc testified that Ernest J. Bourgeois, president of the Square Dealers, had accidentally shot George Alessi, Tanakapohia parish police juror, mysteriously wounded during the airport fiasco. He cast reflections upon both the courage and the marksmanship of the Square Deal leader.

HOLD LEADER

Bourgeois, missing since the episode, returned to the city today to call an "unarmed mobilization of Square Dealers," and was promptly arrested by militiamen, to be released later.

Leblanc bantered with Long, who questioned all the witnesses. "What's your name? I have heard you called Huey, Senator, Crawfish, Kingfish and assistant governor."

REVEAL FIGHT

"I'm Lawyer Long right now," he was told. Leblanc then "revealed" internal dissension among leaders of the Square Deal movement, which is pledged to overthrow Long's dictatorship.

He assailed Bourgeois for going into hiding and remarked: "If that bird (Bourgeois) ever dies, I want his skeleton for an airplane."
